Vol. 75 No. 51 Wednesday, January 4, 1967

It's the total that counts

It's what you have to pay that counts; not just how good it sounds.

Total tax bills in the various cities of the county seem to "even out" when a comparison is made of the taxes paid that include county, city, schools and special districts.

That was revealed recently in a survey made by the city staff of the total tax bill paid by residents in eight different cities in the county, including Campbell.

Some cities, for example, that loudly claim a low city tax rate (Saratoga shows a 10-cent city tax) have special district taxes that almost make up the difference in the final bill. (Saratogans pay 74 cents in special district taxes while Campbell people pay 20 cents in this category.)

The overall tax bill for Campbell taxpayers ($9.571) hits about the average for the eight cities ($9.530) but Campbell has the lowest per capita tax revenue and the lowest per capita assessed valuation of any of the eight cities.

In Campbell the per capita assessed valuation is $1,823 while in Saratoga it's $2,[illegible] which, of course, works to Campbell's disadvantage, for Campbell only raises 17 cents per capita while Saratoga collects 24 cents. And Saratoga is not the highest in this phase..as the survey shows.

C. of C. names new officers

Directors of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce met this morning to choose their officers for 1967. President, vice-president and treasurer were to be named from the 15-member board of directors.

Seven directors were elected for two-year terms in December while eight are holdover and have one-year yet to serve on their terms.

Dick Hardy a long-time C. of C. director and who has served as president for the past 18 months, is retiring from the board this year but will serve as an ex-officio director during the next year.

DICK HARDY --steps down

Hardy, who was vice-president in 1965, succeeded to the presidency when Ron Tharp, of IBM, was transferred in the middle of the year. Hardy then was elected to a full term of office last year.

Harry Lind, First Valley Bank manager, is currently serving as vice-president. He was named to that position in July of last year when Gene Kelley, of First National Bank, resigned and moved to Iowa. Lind has indicated that he preferred to serve again as vice-president.

Ken Mantle, of New York Life, was named as a director in July to fill out the term of Kelley and thus is a "holdover" member. Mantle was the only appointment to the board made during the entire 12 month period

REPLACEMENT--Jim O'Brien, (left) Campbell representative for PG&E, was named last week as a Chamber of Commerce director to succeed Richard Frothingham (right), local plant manager of IBM, who has been transferred by his company.

Frothingham was one of the seven directors elected for two-year terms in December and would have officially taken office today when C. of C. officers for the new year were to be named. O'Brien, one of the top "losers" in the election when 16 candidates contested for the seven spots, previously served as a director for two years.

Installation of the new officers will be held on Jan. 27 at the annual dinner-dance at Villa Felice with Judge Richard W. (Dusty) Rhodes again serving as installing officer.

Kiwanis Club installs officers for new year on Tuesday

Karl Marshall was installed last night as president of the Campbell Kiwanis Club with his father, Von Marshall, past Lt. Gov. of Kiwanis San Diego area, as installing officer at impressive ceremonies held at the Villa Felice.

Other officers for the 1967 Campbell Kiwanis year include F. Petersen, vice president; Harry Lind, treasurer and Guy Farley, secretary.

Master of Ceremonies for the evening was Harry Mayfield, past president of Campbell club. Steve Goodman has served as president in 1966.

New members of the local board of directors include Tony Bonaccorso, Stan Elliott.

City employees get 5% pay hike, if council adopts new program

City employees will get pay hikes of approximately 5%, if the City Council today adopts the classification and pay plan as recommended by City Manager Bob Stephens.

The council was to meet in a special session at 4 p.m. today to discuss the comprehensive 38-page report that has been submitted by Stephens. The council will hold its first regular meeting of the year next Monday, Jan. 9 at 8 p.m.

The adoption of the classification and pay plan in January follows a new concept in procedure that was established last June on the recommendation of the city manager.

This new approach allows the city manager to gain a better idea of the city's fiscal position than was possible in June at budget time.

According to Stephens, one more police officer and one more fireman will be the only additional personnel recommended which must be budgeted for now.

Other changes in staff are planned but reclassification of current positions will mean that no additional outlay will be necessary.

At next Monday's meeting, the council may adopt the new zoning code enforcement provisions that will allow the planning department to enforce the zoning ordinances instead of the building department as now is the case.

The council could also next Monday adopt a policy affecting the priorities for improvement of major streets in town, including Campbell Ave. It is APPOINTED--Dean Chamberlin, of 103 Carlyn, Campbell, has been appointed by the City Council to the Planning Commission to fill the vacancy created by the death of Jim Tomlinson, who had served the commission since its inception.

Chamberlin is a long-time resident of Campbell and a veteran administrator in the Campbell Union High School District. Chamberlin and his wife, Veva, have two sons, Don, a graduate student at Stanford and Jim, a high school senior.

Planners face problem in college "relocatables"

It is sort of a case where you lose even if you win.

Members of the Planning Commission last night, Tuesday (after press time), were scheduled once again to be involved in a disturbing planning situation that concerned West Valley College and its relocatable classrooms.

On the agenda for last night's meeting was the public hearing on the application of the college for a use permit to allow two additional "relocatables" on the Rincon Ave. parking lot and 12 additional ones on the Latimer Ave. lot.

Campbell city officials in the past have indicated that while they favored the college here on a permanent basis, they frowned on the use of the Campbell campus as a sort of shanty town with the parking lots covered with portable buildings.

College officials have countered that the "relocatables" planned for the campus are attractive in design (an architect's sketch appears below and another view of the proposed building on an inside page).

City officials also

OUT ON THE LIMB with George Vierhus

THAT LOL (little old lady) we have referred to in recent columns has been heard from again.

You may recall we recently received an unsigned letter from someone we classified as a LOL. After mentioning the letter in our column, the office received a phone call from the person who admitted she was the LOL.

She cancelled her subscription, although she still would not give her name. She did not like the way we had suggested that she had her facts wrong in her unsigned letter.

So we commented about losing our LOL as a subscriber.

This week Fran took a call from apparently the same LOL (that's the way she described herself) about the latest comment in this column.

NOW WE REALLY do have problems.

Did we or did we not lose a subscriber?

If the person doesn't take the paper, how in the world would that person know what was in this column?

That's an academic question. So don't answer it.

It's not that they are missing anything, it is just the principle involved.

INADVERTENTLY during the phone conversation with Fran, the LOL paid The Press a high compliment which, of course, we are pleased to pass on to you without any charge for this extra service.

The caller said that there was nothing in The Press except stuff about the local churches, schools, city hall and social events.

Fran conceded that this was true. That was the paper's objective she pointed out, and was pleased a subscriber (or a former subscriber) recognized it.

So what did the LOL think The Press should do?

The LOL had no answer, except to comment that the San Jose Mercury News did not have this coverage of Campbell.

WE GUESS THE LOL didn't understand that we play in a different league than the San Jose papers.

The Campbell Press proudly admits that it's the only paper that gives a rip about this community and the people who live in it.

So what else is new?

CHRISTMAS CARDITIS, a seasonal affliction, is now over for another year.

There are, of course, a few stragglers that dribble in because they were missent to the wrong address or improperly addressed. (We received one card, for example, that made a tour of the San Jose Mercury News before hitting our home. We still don't know how it happened.)

Of course some cards

Editorial

Campbell's first

One of the most valuable informative programs ever developed for the citizens of Campbell will be presented in this community on Feb. 13 at West Valley College when the first "Congress for Community Progress" will take place.

Sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce with the City of Campbell administration actively participating, the objective of the "Congress" is to give the citizens an opportunity to explore the varied problems that confront the community and to outline the goals that will make this a better community in which to live and work.

To determine what topics are of the greatest interest to the residents of the area, answers to a questionnaire that was distributed by The Campbell Press and by mail have now been tabulated.

These subjects will be the basis for eight panel discussions that will take place during the morning hours of the Congress.

Although the response to the questionnaire has not been as great as desired, enough interested citizens replied to indicate that the "Congress" will serve a very useful purpose in fostering better community relations as well as acquainting citizens with the civic problems and the goals.

Congressman Charles Gubser, who was re-elected in November to his eighth term, will be the keynote speaker. Laurance J. Hill, superintendent of the Campbell Union High School District, is the general chairman.

But the basic point which we particularly stress is that the "Congress" will give all of us an opportunity to express our opinions as to what we think are this community's objectives.

It will also give us all a chance to learn first hand about local issues that affect us all.

The desire, of course, by those directing the operation is to get as much active participation from individual citizens as possible.

This is truly a "grass roots" program. We sincerely hope that all those who have the interest of the community at heart will attend the sessions.

The questionnaire that was distributed attempted to cover all phases of community life, including such topics as street improvements, youth opportunity, future expansion plans, education, and civic beautification.

Of especial interest were many of the comments of those answering the questionnaire.

Naturally some of the comments were cynical and sarcastic. Others showed a lack of knowledge of what makes their community tick.

But there were many comments that revealed a deep interest by the citizens in their community and a sincere desire to move in a coordinated manner toward a definite objective.

It is recognized, of course, that the average citizen often becomes so enmeshed with his daily routine that there is no time left to give any attention to civic affairs.

The sad part is that every person living in the community has a stake in its operation whether or not they take any interest in what is going on.

Many, of course, make no effort to find the right answers but prefer to stand on the sidelines and criticize and condemn.

The "Congress" would be helpful to those people in acquainting them with the facts of life about their own community.

We consider this "Congress for Community Progress" one of the most outstanding and ambitious projects ever undertaken by the Campbell Chamber of Commerce.

In a number of communities where similar congresses have been held they have proved their value in many different ways.

The suggestion to hold Campbell's first "Congress for Community Progress" was made by Jim Duffield, manager of the local C. of C. who had been involved in similar programs in other cities.

Campbell is indeed fortunate in having a man of Duffield's stature directing the mechanics of the "Congress".

But the "Congress" cannot be the project of one man or 20 men. It is a community-wide endeavor and to be successful must have the active support of all civic organizations and all citizens.

We readily concede that we may be overly-enthusiastic about Campbell's first "Congress".

But that may be because a newspaper by necessity is continuously involved in the various phases of community life that provide the very foundation for a successful "Congress".

It is a community newspaper's function to inform the public about all civic activities; to outline objectives that have been decided upon by city officials; to report, criticize or commend actions of school boards and city administration.

Your community newspaper attempts to do all those things.

But we readily admit that we don't always "get through". It will not always be possible to find the answers to your problems in these columns.

But that is the objective of the "Congress for Community Progress".

And isn't that what many of you have been looking for?

arrived between Christmas and New Years simply because the people who sent them had been slow in getting 'em out because they were waiting to see what they received first.

But we really are not cynical about the whole Christmas card bit, although we do think it has been carried to an extreme.

We readily admit that we eagerly open cards to see who sent them and we enjoy reading the hand-written or printed messages on them.

WE LIKE THE IDEA also of, at least once a year, hearing from friends and relatives. We know very well we would miss the custom, if suddenly it was eliminated. (And we don't mind sending 'em, provided our Dorothy handles that department.)

Our cards at home this year even had an international flavor to them.

We received cards from people we had met in Denmark, England and Scotland.

But maybe it has become overly-commercialized.

Naturally, these contacts should be made oftener than once a year.

But, at the same time, card-sending/receiving has become a big part of the entire Christmas season and we wouldn't want to see it changed, for even the most stereotyped greeting has a seasonal warmth.

And, man, we would really miss that phase of it.

And once a year is better than not hearing at all.

THERE ARE A FEW who still take delight in recalling the series of goofs the paper made in the Christmas issue.

We really don't blame 'em.

They were sort of face-reddening to say the least.

The picture of Mrs. Edith Morley appeared in the paper wrongly identified as Mrs. Betty Grizzle. Both are members of the Parks and Recreation Commission.

But the reason for the picture was that Betty had just been reappointed to a three-year term.

Having known both gals for the past 11 years, your editor's face was particularly red.

IN THE SAME issue a news story located the new St. Lucy's church north of the parish house. It should have been south.

That's a minor miscue, to be sure. But when we originally ran the story about the new St. Lucy's church in March we made the same mistake.

We should learn our directions after a while.

And in the same issue a picture of a prize-winning decorated yard was wrongly identified.

But 1966 is behind us now.

There will be no such mistakes made in 1967.

We MUST be kidding.

And we are.

of 1966.

Bill Oltmann, a public accountant and a long-time director of the C. of C., is also retiring this year. Oltmann served as treasurer for a number of years.

Bob Bullard, a certified public accountant who was elected to a two-year term as a director in December, has been recommended to succeed Oltmann and indications were that he would be named at the directors meeting today.

The outgoing directors had the unusual task of appointing a board member to replace one of the seven newly-elected directors who had been transferred before he could take office.

In a special meeting last Wednesday, Jim O'Brien, of PG&E, who previously served as a director of the local Chamber for two years (1960-62) was appointed to the vacancy created by the transfer of Richard Frothingham, IBM plant manager.

O'Brien had been one of the 16 candidates contesting for one of the seven board seats and received a large vote.

Membership on the new board of directors represent almost every phase of community life, including business, industry, professions, church and schools.

The seven new directors include: Harry Aho, Breuner's; O'Brien, PG&E; Laurance J. Hill, superintendent, high school district; Don Kennedy, Bank of America; the Rev. William (Ben) Gould, First Methodist; Bill Brown, Campbell Office Machines; Bullard, CPA.

Hold-over directors include: James Baker, attorney; William Kuhlman, M. D., New York Life Insurance; Meryl MacLean, MacLean's Men's Wear; Lee Sicard, Pacific Telephone; and George Vierhus, Campbell Press.

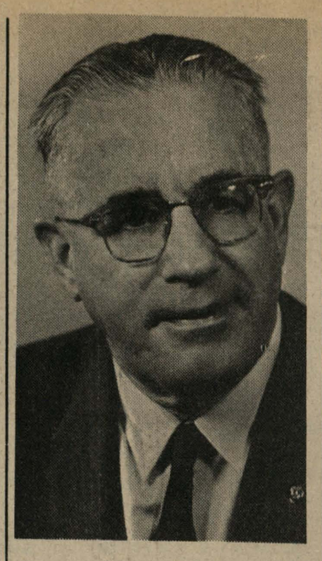
expected that the Downtown Redevelopment Committee may have a recommendation on priorities ready at that time. The committee is scheduled to meet Monday morning.

The council is also expected to review the proposed park development program for the 10-acre park area adjacent to the 80-acre percolation pond area of the water conservation district. The plan was previously submitted to the supervisors by the county parks director but supervisors refused to act on it until official comments from Campbell had been received.

The proposal will also be reviewed by the Planning Commission and the Parks and Recreation Commission.

City Manager Stephens also reported this week that Mrs. Reba Chappell, a member of the Parks and Recreation Commission, had resigned which will necessitate the City Council making an appointment to that body.

The council next Monday will probably discuss the proposed plan to reassess one parcel in proposed Loczl Local Improvement District No. 11. The entire LID program has been delayed because of complications arising over this one parcel.



RETIRED--Louis A. Lopes, County Tax Collector for the past two and one half years, retired on Dec. 30, Edward N. Glaeser, County Director of Finance, has announced.

Lopes, who was a county employee for 30 years, served 21 years in the tax collector's office. He is a San Jose native and attended Cambrian Grammar School and Campbell High School. Lopes is married, the father of four sons, and has 18 grandchildren.

Council approves limousine firm

Operation of limousine service within the city limits is regulated under the present taxi ordinance, City Attorney Joe Bonacina informed the City Council at its last meeting.

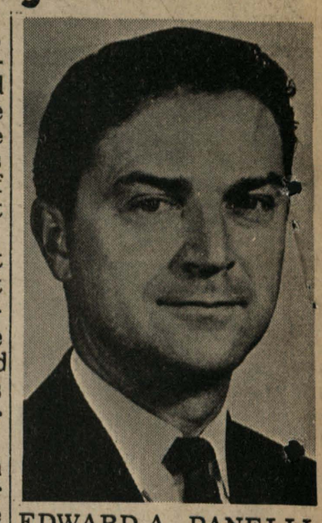
The council then approved the permit for a limousine service to be operated by Robert Loveday, Fred Van Tussell and Donald Moore. The service will operate from 100 W. Rincon.

The council also followed the recommendation of the city attorney to defer action until Jan. 23 on two new city ordinances which would control cats and bees within the city limits.

Bonacina suggested that the ordinances needed reviewing.

The council also referred to staff the request of Anthony Turturicci, 629 W. Hacienda, that a home be moved onto property adjacent to the Turturicci home. A city ordinance prohibits such house moving. The city attorney has ruled that the ordinance would have to be amended to allow it.

Edward Panelli again joins West Valley college board



EDWARD A. PANELLI

Edward A. Panelli, prominent San Jose attorney and elected charter member of the West Valley College board of trustees, is back as a member of the board he quit about four months ago.

He was appointed at a special meeting last week to fill out the unexpired term of Bruce F. Allen, who resigned Dec. 15 following his election last November to the Superior Court.

Panelli resigned from the board in September after he moved from the Campbell Union High School District area he represented on the board. He now lives in the Los Gatos-Saratoga Joint Union High School District, which Allen had represented on the board.

In accepting appointment to the board, Panelli said he is "delighted to serve once again in this worthy cause on behalf of the students of the West Valley area," and added that he "appreciates the confidence placed in me by my friends and associates on the board.

Panelli's choice was unanimous by the board members present. The term to which he was appointed will expire on June 30, 1969.

He served as chairman of the Committee for West Valley College which sought passage of Proposition J, the West Valley College bond issue, in the Nov. 8 election.

Panelli is a graduate of the University of Santa Clara, was at the head of his law class there, and is currently the only lay member of the executive board of the University.

In another action, the board appointed Harold E. Welborn of Burlingame as coordinator-instructor in the Police Science Program, succeeding Roy K. McPhail, who has resigned for health reasons.

Welborn has just retired following almost 25 years with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the last 10 years as assistant special agent in charge of three divisional offices, most recently in the San Francisco office.

In this latter position, he was in charge of the FBI Police Science Training Program for Northern California. Just prior to his retirement he served as an inspector out of the Washington, D.C. headquarters with considerable travel throughout the country, inspecting the field operations of the bureau.

He is a graduate of Western Kentucky State College in Bowling Green, Ky., and also received his master's degree there. Before joining the FBI, he served as a faculty member of the college in the department of biology.

Welborn, who is married and has two grown children, commences his duties as the year begins.

Campbell Crier

by DAVE TURNER

During Christmas vacation sports continued to be the main action on the Campbell campus. The wrestling squad has has several workouts and the basketball teams have been able to sandwich a few games in among irregular practice sessions.

Although they defeated Awalt and Willow Glen, Campbell's Soph-Frosh hoopsters dropped a one point decision to Leigh, 58-57, to finish out of the awards in the Los Altos Tournament.

Coach Mike Sweeney was highly impressed by his team's performance in the tournament, saying they're now starting to play the caliber of ball he knew they were capable of playing.

In their only holiday encounter, the mighty Buc varsity dropped one of those "Yes, but..." games to Mountain View, 49 to 43. By this, I mean there were several individual bright spots for the Bucs and they were in the game all the way, but ask any varsity player and he'd say "Yes, but we should have won it."

ELECTIONS

When students return to school in January, they will be faced with a primary election for student council and student body president candidates.

On Friday, Jan. 6, six council candidates will be selected from the list of John Brydon, Rocci Facundes, Don Fox, Chuck Hawthorne, Meredith Medeiros, Craig Meinhold, Mason Sachs, Tim Sapp, and Greg Stewart.

For Student Body President, electors will be asked to half the field of Leger Grindon, Monty Hart, Greg Lin, and George Taniguchi. The final elections will come later in the month.

LEAGUE PLAY

With the return to classes also comes the opening of league play for Campbell High basketball teams. The first regular season encounter for both varsity and Soph-Frosh teams comes this Friday, Jan. 6, at Camden. The Soph-Frosh game begins at 7 p.m. and the varsity battle will begin directly thereafter.

Buc wrestlers will have their work cut out for them Friday afternoon when they travel to Westmont to test the Warriors. The first match is scheduled to start at 3:30 p.m.

CONSULTANT--Dr. Albert J. Riendeau, dean of vocational education at West Valley College who recently received his doctorate in education, has been asked by the American Association of Junior Colleges to assist in the development of a national publication for vocation advisory committees in Washington.

College sets deadline date

Deadline for receipt of applications, reapplications, transcripts, test scores and petitions for admission to West Valley College is this Friday, Jan. 6, according to Don R. Ziegler, dean of admissions and records.

Ziegler warned that, due to overcrowded conditions on the temporary Campbell campus, applications and transfers will not be accepted after the deadline date.

Following application, next step is counseling and registration of new students, scheduled from Jan. 16-27. Appointment cards for such counseling are now in the mail, on a priority basis, but no appointments are scheduled

Are your resolutions broken? Take heart!

by Sally Howe

Just to get a little different slant on the New Year, we thought we'd ask the young set if they were making any New Year's resolutions.

To our surprise, most of them didn't even know what a resolution was, and, although they didn't say it in so many words, they weren't too sure they could see much sense in them.

We're sure their answers didn't reflect much deep thought, although Andrew Fleisher, 13, 1242 Castlemont, said his resolution "to try to get to make a selective project in shop class," was something he'd been trying to get around to doing for quite a while.

His buddy, Bill Oliver, 1212 Redoaks, had a more simple reply: "to get better grades--you know, really work on them."

Second grader Tina Garner, 31 Page, thought of her duties at home. "I promise I'm going to help with the dishes," she responded when we explained about resolutions.

Twins don't always think alike. At least fair-haired Karol and Karen Helderman, 9, 2175 Violet Way, don't. Karen announced quickly, "Well, I guess I'll have to try real hard not be be sassy and blow my stack."

Less exuberant Karol decided she'd try self-improvement, too, but in a more material vein. "I'm going to remember to bring my sweaters, jackets, and coats home from school," she said.

Craig Peterson, 7, 138 Cherry Lane, was another who was just a little unsure of what was expected of him, but decided he'd "try to sleep in my own bed and not crawl in with mother and dad." A big effort for a small boy in cold weather!

Two humorous reactions came from Carol, 8, and Bruce Silva, 11, 964 N. Harrison. Spoke Carol: "I'm going to be quiet enough in school to get moved out of the noisy row!" (Her mother, Mrs. Cecil Silva, said it was a nice resolution but she have a great deal of faith in its success.)

Bruce, somewhat influenced by today's growing interest in animals decided: "I'm going to be kind and gentle to the dog--oh, and to my sister, too."

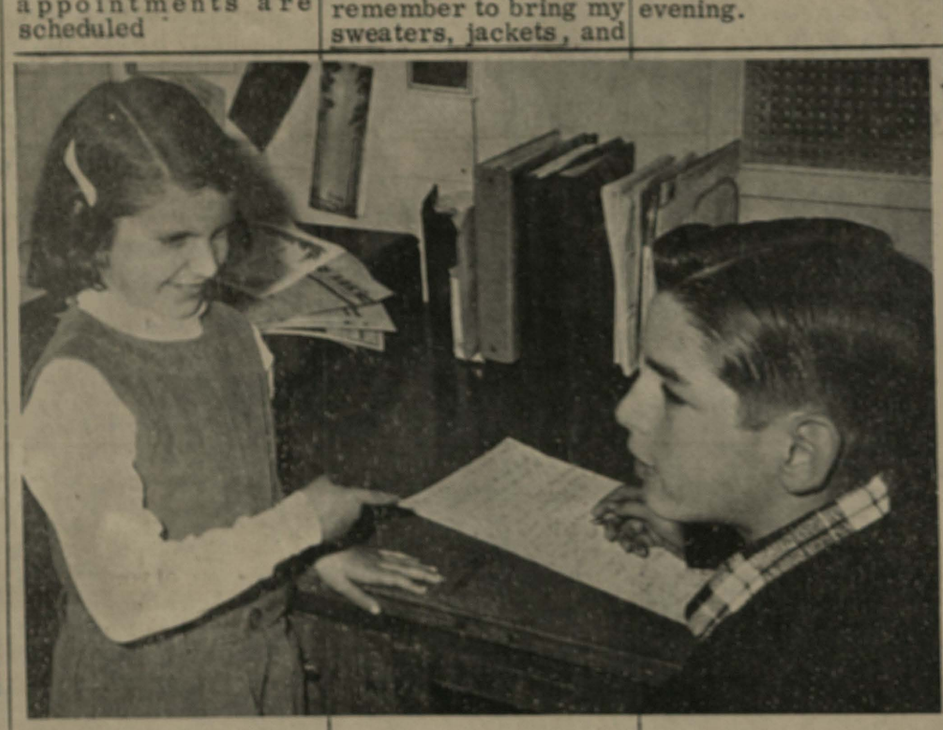
Some children we asked could not make any sense out of our explanations and others were simply to shy to respond.

If any conclusions were to be drawn, it might be said that the kids' resolutions didn't really differ a great deal from the one their folks might make--except that they were willing to have theirs printed in the paper!

OES INITIATION

Campbell Chapter 553, Order of the Eastern Star, meets Friday evening Jan. 6 at the Campbell Grange Hall at 8 p.m.

There will be initiation and Mrs. Euna Fry is chairman for the evening.



YOU GOTTA BE KIDDING--Carol Silva, 8, thinks that brother Bruce, 11, can't be serious about that long list of New Year's resolutions he's drawn up. Carol confesses that she'd be satisfied if Bruce would just pay more attention to her. Both youngsters live with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Silva, 964 Harrison St.

#4 IN CALIFORNIA--Owner-manager, Don Kruse, has opened the fourth DEACON JONES Sunday Style Chicken Parlor, to be located within the borders of California. Kruse and "Deacon" Jones, were on hand Dec. 28, 1966 to welcome everyone to the grand opening. Featured, of course, is the Sunday styled chicken, and also offering for take-out, or dining, seafoods, and barbecue ribs, etc. Complete dinners and lunch are on the menu daily. The restaurant is located in the Campbell Plaza, just up from Budd and Winchester (right on the corner from the Plaza Theatre) and features acres of easy-in, easy-out parking.

WORLD WIDE--Deacon Jones Sunday Style Chicken is a world-wide franchise, with local offices at 1057 El Camino Real, Sunnyvale. The newest location in the Campbell Plaza at Winchester and Budd in Campbell, was opened formally last Wednesday, by Don Kruse, formerly with the Community Bank. Kruse has invited the public to enjoy the delights of the services of his eat in, or take out restaurant, for easy evening meals, or a tasty lunch or late snack on the way to the threatre (the Plaza Theatre is adjacent to the new store).

PROMISES, PROMISES--This quartet has just told what their New Year's resolutions are and are fortifying their remarks with an appropriate sign. Rear are Karol and Karen Helderman, 9, 2175 Violet Way. Front are Tina Garner, 31 Page, and Craig Peterson, 138 Cherry Lane.

Legendary lights at Watson home

If you had chanced to drive down Winchester Blvd. on Christmas Eve or on the Sunday night preceding Christmas you may have seen an unusual sight around a large Spanish-style house on Catalpa Lane.

At first glance, it looked as though the house and yard were surrounded by many, many glowing blocks. Closer inspection revealed that the lights were coming from neatly placed paper bags, set squarely around walks, drive, and porch.

The bags, placed and lighted by the Courtland Watson family, are a tradition in the southwest United States and are called luminarias.

Their history lies in the days when early Spanish colonists, principally in New Mexico, built little wood fires to help the Christ Child find his way on Christmas Eve over 300 years ago.

The Watsons, admirers of Indian and Spanish influence, and former residents of Arizona, have taken the tradition as their own. On this Christmas, Watson and his three children placed and lighted more than 200 of the sand-filled bags around his yard and lighted them at dusk. The candles inside burn for about two hours and then snuff themselves out in their sand bases.

RELOCATABLE BUILDINGS CAMPBELL CAMPUS
WEST VALLEY COLLEGE

College

have expressed concern that the parking problem that now exists because of college students parking on residential streets will be worsened if more parking spaces in the college lots are eliminated by the relocatable rooms.

But city officials also recognize that the college has a desperate problem.

Gene Arnold, dean of campus facilities, explains that the evacuation of one of the old Grammar School buildings because it was rated unsafe under the Field Act, requires 28 relocatable buildings and the college will need seven more just for growth this year.

Of these 35, 21 will be placed on the Campbell campus proper and the other 14 on leased land. Arnold adds also that there will be 976 parking spaces remaining on the lots even after the 14 rooms are placed there.

Dick Hogan, planning consultant for the city, has suggested that if the 14 buildings are approved that they be placed on the Rincon lot because of the parking congestion at the other location.

City council members in a recent joint meeting with the governing board of the college indicated that the city would be more "cooperative" to the college problems, if it was found that Campbell has some place in the college's future.

THE YOUNG EXECUTIVES
by Walter Guzzardi, Jr.

No class of men has been more commonly misunderstood than the new generation of business and industrial management. Their public image has become one of the unquestioning servants of giant companies, shunning risk, trading initiative for security. How much of this is true, how much myth? Lucid and objective, The Young Executives answers this question in a searching probe of the young middle-management executives of today - tomorrow's leaders of the world's greatest corporations.

TELL THE TIME TO NONE
a novel by Helen Hudson

This first novel is of uncommon excellence. Original in concept, sharply observed and bright with wit, it offers an inside and melancholy view of a typical academic community. But unlike most novels about faculty politics and faculty wives, Miss Hundon's is not written with rage or malice. Her point of view is ruefully satirical, her people sadly human in their egoism, self-absorption and isolation. An entertaining and admirable novel which should delight anyone who does not demand violence, sex and melodrama in his fiction.

YANQUI, COME BACK!
By William B. Walsh, M.D.

This is an inspiring story of the remarkable change wrought in Peru by the ten-month visit of the famous hospital ship Hope. As a result of their dedicated work, Hope's magnificent doctors and nurses performed a major miracle in United States-South American relations while they quietly carried out their usual minor miracles of caring for the sick and training the local doctors and nurses in the most up-to-date medical procedures.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Questions and Answers

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE
SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION

Q. - I have a 17-year-old son receiving social security benefits. If he takes a part-time job, is the earnings limit the same for him as for me?

A. - Yes. A child beneficiary who works is permitted to earn up to $1500 a year without affecting payment of his benefits.

Q. - I was married 25 years and then my husband divorced me. I have heard that I may still qualify for social security benefits on his account even though we are divorced. Is this true?

A. - Yes, providing at the time of your divorce your husband was under a court order to support you, or was making substantial contributions to your support at the time he became entitled to social security benefits or died. You must be of retirement age, however, to qualify for these benefits.

Q. - I am attending a trade school at the request of my employer and he pays me while attending school. Is it possible for me to receive student benefits?

A. - Not as long as you are being paid by your employer while attending school at his request.

A. - A friend of mine told me he expects to keep his private health insurance policy with some changes even after he can get Medicare benefits. I had planned to drop mine as soon as I reach 65 and apply for Medicare. What should I do?

A. - Don't drop your private health insurance before you file your application with the Social Security Administration. When you apply for Medicare, be sure you understand exactly when its protection starts. Many private insurance companies and Blue Cross plans have developed new health insurance policies that supplement the protection received under Medicare. You may wish to discuss these policies with your insurance agent.

1 YEAR AGO

Redistriction action on the part of the County Board of Supervisors last week left Campbell mostly in Supervisor Ralph Mehrken's fourth district. However, Supervisor Sam Della Maggiore will have that part of the city that lies east of Highway 17.

West Valley College governing board has approved a purchase of 32 additional acres of its campus site in the southeast corner of Fruitvale and Allendale avenues in Saratoga, bringing the total purchases to just under 100 acres.

Campbell City Council members are now pondering the perplexing question of whether a traffic signal is needed at Winchester-Rincon intersection.

5 YEARS AGO

William S. Smeed, a San Jose attorney, and Harry A. Lee, owner of a public relations and advertising agency, were appointed by the City Council on Monday night to the Planning Commission. They will fill the vacancies created by the expiration of the terms of Homer Hyde and Thayer Lyons.

Congressman Charles Gubser speaks today to the senior class at Camden High School.

How far the City of Campbell will go in assisting property owners in the removal of trees and the repairing of damage that the roots have done to sidewalks and curbs in one subdivision in town will probably be decided at the council meeting on January 8.

10 YEARS AGO

Campbell City Planners hold a public hearing tonight at 7:30 in the Fire House in an adjourned meeting from their last Thursday's session on whether or not the City of Campbell should be allowed to use the new City Hall which will be ready for occupancy this weekend.

In a somewhat reluctant manner, the City Planners last Thursday approved the application for a use permit to build a post office at 97-109 N. Central Ave. The vote for approval came after considerable discussion on the parking problem, necessary driveways and the future status of Central Ave. The decision was not unanimous.

Planning Commissioners James Tomlinson and Kenneth Priestley have been appointed by Chairman Homer Hyde of the Planning Commission to work with Nestor Comrett planning consultant, and Joseph Bonacina, city attorney, in the establishment of required front yard setback minimums for properties affected by future road widening programs.

15 YEARS AGO

The County Board of Supervisors approved a a final version of the boundaries of the proposed City of Campbell at a special hearing held Tuesday.

Clarence and Milton Nelson, proprietors of Nelson Feed and Supply Co., will prove that chickens are smarter than humans in a demonstration sponsored by General Mills Co., tomorrow at the Campbell store.

Dr. Theodore N. Engdahl, San Jose dentist, spoke in favor of the fluoridation of public drinking water before members of the Campbell Rotary Club meeting Monday noon. Engdahl cited high sugar content diets as one of the major causes of tooth decay and suggested water fluoridation as a possible solution to the dental problem.

Grass Roots

The difference between two neighborhoods or two streets in any neighborhood is often in the trees that are or are not planted there. All other things being equal, the nicest neighborhood in which to live or work is one with its fair share of trees.

Some communities are fortunate enough to have park departments which encourage street-tree planting, while in other communities, private groups have to organize and push the project on their own. All it takes in any neighborhood is one or two people to spark the drive for street beautification.

There are many ways in which to beautify a street by planting. In downtown areas, the merchants may get together and decide to foot the bill for tree planting--usually in large tubs or containers. Many trees are suited to tub culture, notably the Indian Laurel, or Laurel Fig as some will call it, and the Victorian Box, a member of the versatile Pittosporum family. Both have been planted widely along the downtown streets of California. The Evergreen Elm also lends itself to growing in tubs.

In a residential neighborhood, the choice can be made from evergreen trees such as the widely-used Camphor Tree, from deciduous trees such as Liquidamber or from deciduous flowering fruit trees such as the Flowering Japanese Cherries. There are many more to be found in any nursery. The thing is to make a decision for beautification, then consult with a nurseryman.

For further information on how the organization you belong to can bring beauty through planting to your community, write the California Association of Nurserymen, Public Relations Department, P.O. Box 8, Orinda, California. An informative booklet will be supplied free of charge.

The U.S. fishing industry, a major source of our food, is gradually losing out to foreign competition. And unless U.S. policy becomes more aggressive, foreign nations will deplete our coastlines of fish while reserving their home waters to themselves.

Russian fishing trawlers and large factory ships which freeze and can fish at sea are now seen with increasing frequency along the Pacific coast. Russia overtook the United States in fish production in 1960 and now occupies fourth place among the fishing nations of the world. In ten years she doubled her production and is now producing more than five million metric tons each year. This is accomplished with a fishing fleet of eighteen thousand vessels which includes four thousand ocean going trawlers, 300 refrigerated transport vessels, several dozen large factory ships and a large research fleet.

Russia's frantic efforts to expand the industry stem from the fact that her agriculture has failed and she can produce fish for as little as 20% of what it costs to produce the same weight in cattle. And it is done with 25 to 30% less capital investment.

Japan has recently expanded her activities to the Pacific Coast of the United States. From the ruins of World War II Japan made a phenomenal recovery to become the world's leading fishing nation in 1962. She also operates in the Indian Ocean, across the equatorial Atlantic, and along the North and South American coasts. Experts predict that both Japan and Russia will continue to expand operations into what have been traditional U.S. fishing grounds.

Peru has now replaced Japan as the number one fish producer, and other South American countries, particularly Chile and Columbia, are presently pressing forward. With other Latin American countries, they have made off-shore claims extending two hundred miles out to sea. The President of Nicaragua has boldly signed a decree establishing a national fishing zone of two hundred miles.

Most countries subscribe to the ruling of the International Law Commission limiting territorial waters to three miles. During the 1960 Law of the Sea Conference in Geneva, the United States proposed a six mile territorial limit with an additional six mile fishing zone but the proposal failed and we still consider ourselves bound by the three mile limit.

The irony of our difference of opinion with Latin American countries is that often former U.S. Naval vessels on loan to those countries have been used to stop U.S. fishing boats in international waters. On October 28, 1962, a Peruvian vessel stopped THE WESTERN ACE and THE CHICKEN OF THE SEA at a point eleven miles off the Peruvian coast. THE WESTERN ACE was actually fired upon. On February 12, 1962, the vessel SAN JOAQUIN was siezed by a former U.S. Naval vessel flying the Colombian flag. El Salvador siezed THE LOUJEAN and THE WEST POINT was threatened by a Mexican vessel.

With such aggressive tactics being used by the fishing industry in the rest of the world, it behooves our State Department to recognize a growing threat to a major source of food and to assume a harder bargaining position at international conference tables.

Church seeks help for Cuban refugee family

St. Lawrence Episcopal Church, Campbell, is attempting to help a Cuban refugee family to settle in the area. The family, Mr. and Mrs. Jose Rames, with a 12 year old son and a 29 year old foster daughter, are now at Freedom House, Miami, Florida, a refugee center.

Ramos, 52 years of age, had a distinguished career in Cuba. He has been a Spanish Literature Professor, practicing attorney, manager of a steamship line, and when he and his family left Cuba, a civil court judge.

His wife, also an attorney, is a skilled I.B.M. operator as well as a gifted seamstress. The foster daughter has been a salesgirl, I.B.M. operator and is also a seamstress. Ramos has a fair use of English. Neither Mrs. Ramos nor the children handle English.

This family has chosen to settle in this area so as to be near their son who is in the Army and stationed in Monterey.

Living quarters and employment are needed for the family. As to employment, Mr. and Mrs. Ramos will be unable to practice law for some time and will accept any type of employment. A modest two bedroom apartment is being sought for living quarters. St. Lawrence Church is appealing to the church congregations in the area and to the community at large for information on living accomodations or employment. Call or write the Rev. A. David Carson, vicar, St. Lawrence Episcopal, 65 W. Rincon Ave., Campbell. 379-5320 or 377-7659.
